

GAMING LABORATORIES INTERNATIONAL (GLI) AWARDED TESTING & QA SERVICES RFP BY ONTARIO LOTTERY AND GAMING CORPORATION

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (2 November 2011) – GLI Test Labs Canada ULC, also doing business as “TST, A GLI Company,” has been awarded two important service streams from the Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corporation (OLG). GLI/TST will provide independent gaming and related-applications testing and Quality Assurance (QA) services, as well as laboratory-based physical devices and systems testing and QA services.

“OLG currently operates a proficient internal lab and testing facility with capabilities to test physical devices. That is why we are thrilled that OLG has elected to have the option for gaming applications and devices testing and QA functions to be provided through independent labs, such as GLI/TST,” said TST CEO Salim Adatia. “This is because GLI/TST has the expertise to test highly specialized equipment or environments that are not necessarily available within OLG.”

The OLG RFP requires access to independent testing and QA services from experts demonstrating relevant gaming and related-applications expertise for the purposes of performing independent verification and validation of gaming and related applications functions and performance on an as-needed and when-requested basis.

“We are excited to be on OLG’s roster to provide these testing and QA services, and therefore be recognized as having the appropriate people, processes and enabling technologies,” Adatia said. “With the combined forces of GLI and TST, we are simply the world’s foremost gaming testing authority with the most experience in the industry. We are confident we will be of great value to OLG.”
